MYSTERY OF A SKELETON ON THE SANTIAGO ROCKS ROYAL

Tragic and Harrowing Scenes That Followed the Destruction of Cervera's Fleet.

New York, Mrach 18.—The sensational finding of the body of Admiral Villamil of the Spanish navy, sitting in this own blood on the sun-blistered rocks about four miles west of the entrance to Santiago harbor, calls forth a statement from the correspondent who witnessed the destruction of Cervera's fleet on July 3 last from the yacht nessed the destruction of Cervera's throw fleet on July 3 last from the yacht shore Wanda, a dispatch boat in the service of the Associated Press. Admiral Villandi was an officer of considerable renown in the Spanish service, and he was in command of the torpedo flotilla which accompanied the larger vessels of Admiral Cervera's fleet from the Cape Verde islands to Martinique, and thence to Curacoa and Santiago, last spring. He was badly wounded aboard the destroyer Pluton in the engagement between the American and Spanish fleets near Santiago on July 3 last, but managed to reach the shore and the American sailors did not find him. As he never appeared in Santiago, and as his brother officers on the Pluton knew that he had been desperately wounded, having lost an arm and a leg, his death was never doubted. ada, a dispatch boat in the service was in command of the torpedo flotilla which accompanied the larger vessels of Admiral Cervera's fleet from the Cape Verde islands to Martinique, and thence to Curacoa and Santiago, last spring. As he never appeared in Santiago, and as his brother officers on the Pluton knew that he had been desperately wounded, having lost an arm and a leg, his death was never doubted. But the finding of his body in a chair, and its positive identification by means of his uniform and papers found in his pockets, is the first absolute proof of his death. The mere finding of the body is not such a remarkable fact, but that it should be found seated in an arm chair on that rocky coast, several miles away from any habitation, calls forth the statement from the correspondent referred to, who accounts from the fert his body. The first report from Santlago about the finding of the body. Santlago about the finding of the body, which was received here on Priday, March 10, stated that it was believed to be that of the captain of the Pluton. The statement of the correspondent shows that this could not be correct, for by a peculiar chain of circumstances, connected very closely with the presence of the chair on the Cuban the presence of the chair on the Cuban-shore, he was obliged to have an inter-view with the captain of the Pluton aboard the auxiliary gunboat (con-verted yacht) Gloucester an hour or more after the Pluton had been sent

"When the Gloucester sailors finally returned to their own vessel they un-doubtedly left the Wanda's chair on the shore, and I believe there is not the slightest doubt that the chair aftera prisoner in the hands of his country's enemies. Whether he was placed in the chair before or after he was dead can be told only by the Spanish saliors who placed him there, and they only also can tell whether they left him alone to die or waited beside him until after the breath left his body. It seems hardly possible that General Wood and the other American officers can be mistaken in their identification of the body, but if they are there can be but one theory in regard to it, and that is that the can tell whether they left him alone to die or waited beside him until after the breath left his body. It seems hardly possible that General Wood and the other American officers can be mistaken in their identification of the body, but if they are there can be but one theory in regard to it, and that is that the body was that of the sailor whom I left lying in the pool, and for whom the chair was sent ashore. He may have been placed in the chair by the American sailors and died there before he could be taken to the Gloucester. But could be taken to the Gloucester. But this theory I regard as extremely doubtful, and, at any rate, its truth or falsity can be demonstrated by the Gloucester officer and the sailors who remained on shore after I left.

Since City Engineer Kelsey made his report on the polluted condition of the water in Parley's creek, the settlers in that canyon have been busy cleaning up the refuse. In the near future the up the refuse. In the near future the waterworks committee will take a trip up the canyon and make a thorough inspection. It is quite likely, however, that they will not find the condition of affairs quite as bad as set out in the engineer's communication, because of the general clean-up that is being made. But if any proof of facts as described in the report is wanted, one has but to look at some of the photographs taken by the engineering department. They show barnyards on the creek and in some instances show the refuse from stables thrown into the water. water

City officials realize that something must be done to keep settlers out if the water is to be used for domestic purposes. PORTO RICO IS QUIET.

Stories of Threatened Uprising Are Without Foundation.

San Juan de Porto Rico, March 18 .-The reports contained in newspapers just received here alleging that danger exists of an uprising of the natives are regarded with astonishment, and are absolutely without foundation in fact. The only disturbances that have oc-curred here have been local fights be-tween the American volunteers and the lower classes.

The Associated Press correspondent, who has just returned from an extended trip through the Island, found only occasional evidences of dissatisfaction resulting from brawls and local politics, and American officers now here ridicule the idea of an uprising of the natives, who, they say, are without weapons, and are entirely lacking in organization.

Why experiment with incompetent Doctors? Drs. Come any day this week-the offer will close Saturday night at 8 o'clock, March 25th.

WHY THIS FREE TREATMENT?

Many people asked Drs. Shores last week what their object was in giving a week's treatment free to everyone. Drs. Shores answer to all such questions was:

First-Drs. Shores knew that their treatment for Cutarrh and Deepseated Chronic Diseases was far in advance of any and all other treatments. They knew "seeing was believing" and they took the surest plan even the expensive one of letting everyone try the treatment a whole week free-and judge for themselves the merits of Drs. Shores' treatment and methods.

Second-Drs. Shores want the sick who have tried other Doctors to test their treatment and compare it with what they have tried before. They know their treatment won't suffer by comparison with any treatment on earth, and the Doctors want to convince sick people that their treatment will cure them-and give them a chance to try it free before paying out their money. Then if they wish to continue treatment at Drs. Shores' popular low free rate, they can do so with the assurance that in no case of Catarrhal troubles, will the fee ever exceed $5.00 a month, medicines in-

THIS IS NO CHARITY OFFER.

This is by no means a charity offer -it is for the rich and poor alike and given as a genuine test treatment to all sick people who are in doubt. This is Drs. Shores' way of proving to the sick the superiority of their treatment over all others. Did you ever hear of any other treatment that would stand it?
